Beware! Letters to Editor May Be Canned Propaganda

It pointed out that "letters" appearing in newspapers from and Joseph F. Some of our own local papers year no accident drivers are Russeat beside to the large fuller for this line. in Indiana have fallen for this line.

Editor and Publisher advises that editors pay more attention to the source of these "spontaneous" expressions of public opinion. Generally it will be found that those people who sound off against the trucking industry have some connection with the railroads and, indeed, may actually be receiving money to take advantage of the newspapers' supposedly impartial public forums.

Swede Learns of Teamsters' Heaven -It's K. P. for Dead Executives

One night in late October I was driving my van over a lonely road on the outskirts of Richmond, Va. I was tired and needed rest so I drove into a wide place alongside a large cemetery and parked. I sat there awhile and gazed into the murky shadows dotted with tombstones under a full moon.

As I sat there wondering how life would be on the other side of

Then my cab door opened by itself and I was dumbfounded to "I hope you do not mind if I come in and rest a bit."

1 finally blabbed forth: "But . . . I . . . can't . . . see

"An emissary of the Great Master Creator tapped me on the shoulder and informed me that I was wanted above and took me by the hand. Happy because I wasn't wanted below, I followed, feeling rested and light.

"Toward morning I saw what looked like a tremendous ball of entwined chromium steel. It turned out to be a world of colossal size and thickly dotted with large cities whose skyscrapers, 10 times taller than the Empire State building, pierced the sky like clusters of bayonets. It was girdled by long, sweeping steel skyways upon which streamlined cars traveled at terrific speed. Rocket planes, large as trains, traveled with roaring swiftness, stopping at times along suspended hangars and stations. It was a roaring and restless advanced world known as the planet Forbius, 500 times larger than Earth and 10,000 years farther ahead in progress

"I thought it was the right place for me but the emissary said that as yet I was too stupid, that the poorly developed brain I brought along from Earth would not fit in with these highly advanced people.

"On we went to another planet which looked rather bare and dismal with steam blowing skyward. Thousands of people were scrubbing themselves with brooms and brushes, splashing in soapy pools of water. I was told this was the universal cleaning place.

"I was given a week to clean every pore in my body before being taken into the presence of the Great Creator.

"As we descended I noticed thousands of hot springs pouring into huge pools. The mountains were all of solid soap with fields and fields of soap flakes.

"In a week I scrubbed off 12 pounds of dirt although I had bathed

"After an inspection by an overseer, we took off and were soon nearing the seat of the universal government. As we approached the great planet, it dazzled in splendor like an immense jewel. In descending I behald a paradise Leyond description. Buildings of fact jade with fountains gushing cologne set in gardens and meadows of gorgeous flowers.

N PRIZE MONEY FOR TEN ROADEO W

Waldon, Wright and 8 Other Champs Rewarded by Teamsters

John Waldon won the tractor semi-trailer and Wilham K. Wright the straight truck driving contests in the Seventh Annual Indiana truck champion Roadeo at Indiana State Fairgrounds, Indianapolis, June 24-25.

The event marked Waldon's third consecutive victory in the annual contests and gives him permanent possession of a revolving trophy.

Both winners will represent Indiana in the national Roadeo next October in New York City, as guests of the Indiana Motor Truck Assn., sponsor of the local Roadeo.

Both winners are drivers for Foster Freight Lines. Both are members of Teamsters Local 135 and each received, among other prizes $150 cash from Local 185; 820 from a fund donated by Joint Council 69 and the Indiana Conference of Teamsters and $25 from the Princeton Hotel, Indianapolis, patronized by Teamsters.

Ivis Chastain, also of Foster Freight Lines and Richard (Peanuts) Strouse, of Ellis Trucking Co., placed second in the tractor semi-trailer and straight truck contests. Both are Local 135 members.

Other winners in the field of 40 contestants were:

Tractor Semi-Trailer:

Third place-William Grant, Hayes Freight Lines, Evansville, Local 215;

Fourth place-Wayne A. Davis, Midland Truck Lines, Evansville, Local 215;

Co., Indianapolis, Local 135.

Straight Truck:

Third place-Virgil Ward, Tucker Freight Lines, South Bend, Local 364;

Fourth place-Donald Hawkins, Gerard Motor Express, Evansville, Local 215;

Fifth place-Edward H. Hamilton, Turner Trucking Co., Indianapolis, Local 135.

All eight winners of second, third, fourth and fifth places in the two classifications received $20 each from the Joint Council-Conference fund, additional to other

Attendance at this year's Roadeo was larger than the year before, when it was considerable more than in 1948, indicating that the annual truck driving contest is becoming more and more important to the industry and public generally.

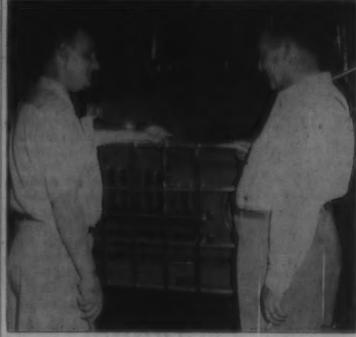

Prizes this year also were more abundant than ever before. An indication of what the ten winners got can be gained from a list of gifts for a No. 1 and No. 5 winner. According to "The Fifth Wheel," official IMTA publication:

Johnny Waldon, No. 1 of tractor semi-trailer contest, received: Trophy, IMTA: all-expense-paid trip to New York City to compete in National; permanent possession of revolving trophy offered by Michigan Mutual Liability Insurance Co.; $20, Indiana State Drivers Councfi; $150, Local 135, Teamsters Union; $100, Ford dealers of Indianapolis District; $10. F. Goodrich Retail Division; pint of Johnson's Car-Nu, Motive Parts Corp.

A number of the contestants had won the right to appear by winning local Roadeos in Fort Wayne, South Bend and Evansville.

Of the 40 contestants, 23 were tractor semi-trailer drivers, 17 straight truck. All had accident-free records for at least one year previous to entering the contest. The 40 drivers were put through a written examination and preliminary driving test on the first day of $100,000 or more annually—has increased in one decade from driving around the burdles.

Clyde Birdsong (left), president of Teamsters Union No. 215. Evanaville, and Raymond Friestuhler, business representative of Local 135, Indianapolis, were union members on the committee of judges which picked five finalists from each class of drivers in preliminary contests of the Roadeo.

Nussbaum NOT In Roadeo

(From Lowell Nussbaum's column in "The Indianapolis Star"

I see the professional truck drivers of Indiana are going to have United in Muncie, is back to work their annual "roadeo" Saturday and Sunday at the State Fairgrounds after an operation in Ball Hosto settle the 1950 state championship. I've got the highest respect for pital. Fifth place—Francis M. Pryor, Jr., Ellis Trucking the boys who wheel those big jobs around, particularly those tractor-trailers. Handling them isn't as easy as it seems. A year or two ago I borrowed a small trailer to transport some articles to my home. got alorg fine until I had to back to turn around. No matter what I did with the steering wheel, the trailer wouldn't co-operate. It kept trying to run up the side of the car. Finally I gave up in disgust and persuaded a couple of husky men to lift it around while I turned the car. So, when I see one of the professionals wheel those big jobs around like a heby carriage I watch with mingled envy and admiration. Especially when they back them into a narrow space and hit it right on the nose.

2 Foster Freight Drivers Praised

Two Foster Freight Lines drivers, members of Teamsters Local 135, have been highly commended by the Indiana State Folias for their action in removal of a seriously injured person from wreckage of a burning car. T They are Charles Fink and Walter Hayes. Mr. Fink in 1948 was an Indiana Driver-of-the-Month winner for his action in rescuing an Air Force major from a burning car which had skidded on an icy road and overturned.

A report from First Sgt. Erwin
J. Rhoda to Capt. Kermit E.
Lewis, Commanding Field Operations, related the details of the latest action:

These two men came upon the scene of an accident and noted that Jeanette Schofield, 16, Lafayette, was pinned in the wreckage of a car in which she had been a passenger. Without regard for their own safety, they took the necessary steps to extricate the girl from the wreckage. As a re-sult of their level-headedness and prompt action, she was removed just as the gasoline tank of one of the wrecked vehicles exploded. Mr. Fink suffered very painful

"There is no doubt that the action of these men saved the life of Miss Schofield, because as they carried her away from the car it immediately becaming a flaming inferno," Sergeant Rhoda re-
